SUGAR TARIFF REVISION

CONGRESS SURE TO TAKE SOME ACTION.

The Trust Increases Its Stock Fifteen Million and Reaches Out for Cuba.

It is announced that at a meeting of stockholders, common and preferred, of American sugar refining company, to be held on September 18 next, a proposition will be made for an increase of $15,000,000 of new stock, one-half common and the other half preferred. A circular letter proposing the new issue is in the printer's hands and will be issued to the 11,000 stockholders in a day or two. The meeting of the board of directors at which the issue of the circular was approved. President Havemeyer when asked about the circular, expressed surprise that the news had become public. He denied the rumor current that the money derived from the new stock was to be used to acquire properties of competitors of the American sugar refining company. He intimated that his company had in mind operations in "fields outside of the United States and not far from our shores."

The extension of the business of the sugar trust into Cuba and Porto Rico "implied" by H. O. Havemeyer will probably have a far-reaching effect on the sugar-growing industry in this country. "The possibilities of Cuba in sugar production are practically unlimited," said Mr. Havemeyer. "At present the production of the world is about two-thirds beet sugar to one-third cane, which is a result of the cutting down of Cuba's production during the Spanish war. Conditions are ripe there now for a resumption and increase of that former production. What we want is to get the raw material into this country, and when we have such a country as Cuba next door, within easy reach, why not utilize it? A duty of half a cent on the refined sugar would protect the people here. It is not possible under present conditions to place a duty on imports from Porto Rico, but the production of Porto Rico anyway is limited compared to that of Cuba. That duty of half a cent would more than even things up. You want to have sugar grown where the conditions are the best for it. There is no place where they are better than in Cuba. There is no discrimination against one part of the country rather than another. You wouldn't want to protect the growing of sugar in Fifth avenue or Hoboken. It must be grown where it grows best."

The possible effect on the sugar growers of this country might be, it was hinted, to drive them more into the beet-sugar industry. The result of this possible development of the Cuban sugar production would be far-reaching in its effect on some of the southern states.

The recommended increase of $15,000,000 in the capital stock of the American sugar refining company caused a good deal of discussion in lower Wall street. It is considered by sugar brokers and importers from the commercial standpoint. They tried to figure on its effect on prices of raw and refined when the American sugar refining company should enter Cuba as a large producer of cane sugar. Then it was said that if raw sugar from Porto Rico and Cuba was admitted to American ports free of duty, the cost of Cuban sugar laid down at New York would be, say, 2½c, which would mean that refined sugar could be sold at a good profit at 3½c a pound. It was this that interested sugar men more than any possible effect the proposed increase would have on the market value of the stock.

That there will be some kind of a readjustment of the sugar tariff as it affects Cuba and Porto Rico is generally admitted. The beet sugar raisers of this country, it was said, are not in favor of any radical reduction of the duty on raw sugar, even if a tariff of one-half cent a pound should be put on refined sugar, for with cane sugar selling at 2½c, the price for beet would have to be correspondingly reduced, and at best only a fair profit is now made by beet growers at present prices. It was said that all of the large sugar men are already more or less personally interested in the raising of sugar in Cuba. Mr. Havemeyer and the Howell interests are known to be largely interested in sugar ventures there. As to the production of cane sugar, it was said that the island has already raised as much as 1,000,000 tons, and that the production would be soon increased to 5,000,000 tons, or more than double the consumption of the United States.

The published interview in which President Havemeyer of the American sugar refining company announces what legislation the next Congress is expected to pass on the sugar question is of interest more for what it overlooks, says a Washington dispatch to the New York Evening Post, than for what it comprehends. Mr. Havemeyer treats Porto Rican raw sugar as if it could be admitted free only by legislation, whereas it is the purpose of the president in a few days to sweep away all tariff barriers between Porto Rico and the rest of the United States and Congress will hardly venture to pick out a single one and set it up again.

As to Cuban sugars, both the cane growers and the beet growers will resist to the last extremity their admission free. The section of the Dingley act authorizing regular reciprocity treaties has expired by limitation, and the section authorizing reciprocity in certain products without the formality of ratification by the Senate does not include sugar in the list. The next Congress is likely to walk very carefully in any matter where favors to the trusts might be expected. What Mr. Havemeyer's company might do is to set up refineries in Cuba and Porto Rico, and conduct their campaign from there, with the ultimate view of annexation and free trade. Beyond that, it is questionable if it can expect help from Congress on the very eve of another general election.—Springfield Republican, July 24.

GOOD SHARK FISHING.
The sharks will hold high carnival for the next few days for they are being provided with a feast that has not been known in these waters for many years. Some of the carcasses of the horses killed in the Honolulu Stock-Yards fire two nights ago are being hauled out to sea on the garbage scows and dumped overboard. The sharks will, no doubt, flock in large numbers about the dumping grounds and the sport of catching the sea wolves ought to be very good by tomorrow or the following day.

PRICE IS THE THING.
